The Jefferson Chair

Dorothy Draper

The Jefferson Armchair, designed in the style of Mrs. Draper's penchant for color and banishing what she called "the will to be dreary," Varney has designed this dramatic and bold chair to be finished in a bright white lacquer with the carved eagle and rosettes accented in gold. This chair is reimagined from a set of chairs that were found on the Greenbrier property by Mrs. Draper during her redesign of the resort in 1946, and which soon received her Draper touch.

Crafted of Cherry with a carved eagle, crafted of Mahogany. This chair is available in either a wood stain or any of our painted finish. The option of painted accents is available at an additional charge. Tight seat.
